August 1980 brought together scattered people and undeveloped ideas. As the school year progressed, we united our separate personalities and ideas. These were reflected in many photographs and fond memories. At the beginning, our collection of pictures of school life was unorganized. With time and perserverance we formed the pictures and memories into an organized album of our school year. The May of 1981 brought us this record in the form of the 1981 BELLEVINOIS.

OF THE • • • MAROONS

Throughout the year we experienced many changes. We were involved socially as well as politically, while we continued in our daily routine. Our lives were broadened, not only on campus, but also through the activities in the world around us.

During every season, the campus provided a beautiful and relaxing atmosphere

Let's give a cheer for Belleville West,
And let us pledge to her our might.
Others may like black or crimson,
But for us it's maroon and white.
Let all our troubles be forgotten;
Let school spirit rule;
Let's join and give our loyal effort
For the good of our old school.

It's Belleville West,
It's Belleville West,
The pride of every student here.
Come on, you old grads,
Join with us young lads,
It's Belleville West now we cheer —
Rah! Rah!
Now is the time, boys,
To make a big noise,
To show our loyalty to our school,
For there is naught to fear,
The gang's all here,
So hail to Belleville Township West.

The bulletin is the official instrument of communication

"Dress Code for Hobo Day: 'Anything goes' is not appropriate. It is emphasized that faculty members do have the authority to take action against any student improperly dressed."

The Administration

"Entrances to the Library, Main, and Auditorium Buildings are being blocked by students sitting on the steps. Please find other areas to meet your friends. Thank you."

Mr. Dan Wolford

"The ring man will be in the cafeteria foyer tomorrow to deliver rings and also to take new orders. A twenty dollar deposit must accompany your order."

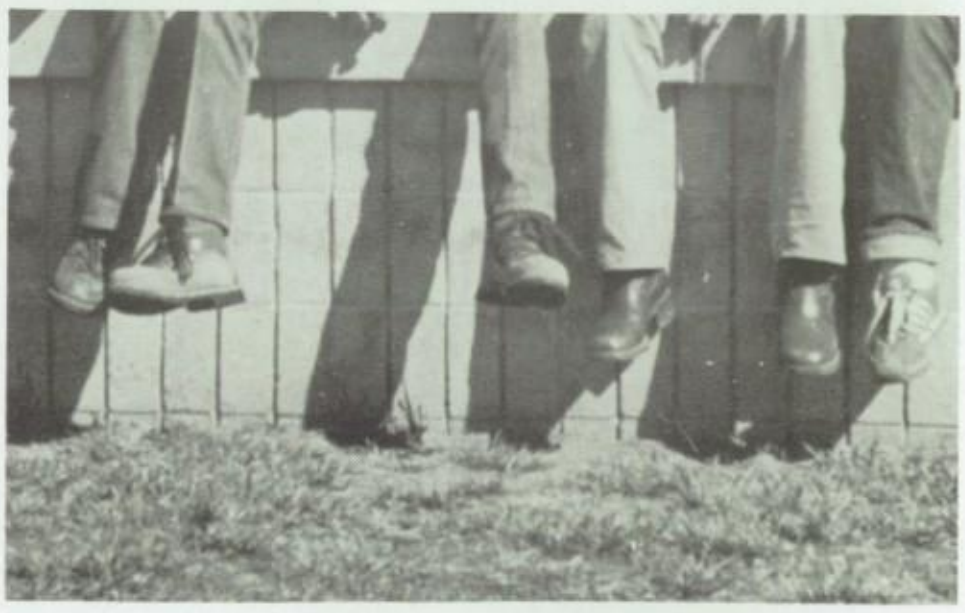
Mrs. Belle Levin

"It's good to see students using the Big 'W' in this nice weather. However, please try to avoid stepping on the daffodills that are now coming up along the edges."

Mr. Fritz Kunze

"All students: All visitors must report to the Assistant Principal's office, 208M, for a visitor's pass."

Mr. Dan Wolford



Bulletins give notices of events and instructions to all

"It has been brought to our attention that high school students are loitering in Bellevue and other area parks during school hours. In addition, some of our students have been returning late to school after spending their lunch hours in the park."

BTHSW Administration

"Belleville West [and East] will be reluctant to dismiss school because of bad weather. However, if school will not be in session, the announcement will be made via radio stations WIBV, 1260 and WMRY, 101, as early as possible the mornings of very adverse weather."

Mr. Jerry Turner

"Expressing affection is, or at least should be a very personal thing. To express in public in an extremely physical way your presumably sincere feelings for another person suggests either that you don't care what impression others might get of the person you care about or that you're so immature you can't keep yourself in control. This conduct should be handled by your own maturity and your respect for the person you care for."

"Because of the bottleneck in traffic at the east door of the Main Building, the east door is designated for in and up only traffic, and the west entrance is designated for out and down only traffic."

BTHSW Administration

How did the year go in song, fads, and activities?

People wore what they felt comfortable in. Designer jeans, dresses of all lengths, and a variety of shoes lined the hallways. Some people dressed as the "Urban Cowboy" while others turned "preppy." Buttons, which proclaimed love for a favorite group, school, or saying, were tacked on jackets and shirts. Disco slowly moved out as punk rock and new wave worked its way in. Dieting, jogging, and exercise classes became regular habits. This was all part of our life.

This election year brought politics home to our campus

1. In November, Ronald Reagan was elected as a Republican to the position of President of the United States. On March 30, he was struck by an assassin's bullet, but recovered to carry on with the responsibilities of his office.
2. President Jimmy Carter, a Democrat, was defeated by a landslide in his bid for reelection.
3. Alan Dixon, the Democrat candidate for the United States Senate, and Dave O'Neal, his Republican opponent, used the Auditorium as the setting for the fourth of their state-wide debates. In November, Alan Dixon became the first native of Belleville to be elected to the Senate. Mr. Dixon and Mr. O'Neal are both graduates of our high school and were met by a large and enthusiastic hometown audience on their return to the campus.

With a wide range of activities, the campus scene was always changing

1. Cast members of "My Fair Lady" practiced for the spring musical.
2. The graffiti-covered smokestack rose above the other buildings on campus.
3. Students arrived by bus, car, and motorcycle.
4. Seniors again challenged each other in the forty-fourth annual Donkey Basketball game. The donkeys won. So did the boys!
5. The senior triangle proved to be a place for students to meet old friends and make new ones.

1. The flag flying in front of the Main Building is a daily reminder of our national pride.
2. Faces of the assembly crowds revealed Maroon spirit.
3. Five minutes between classes provided us with time to demonstrate our talents.
4. The opening assembly in the stadium was an extra-curricular activity shared in by most of the student body.
5. The sundial remained a familiar landmark on campus.

Personnel keep campus clean and efficient

The work of the cafeteria, clerical and janitorial staffs was often overlooked.

The janitors never failed to keep our campus clean. They discovered that the statement, "For every action there is an opposite and equal reaction" was true as they cleaned up the messes we made.

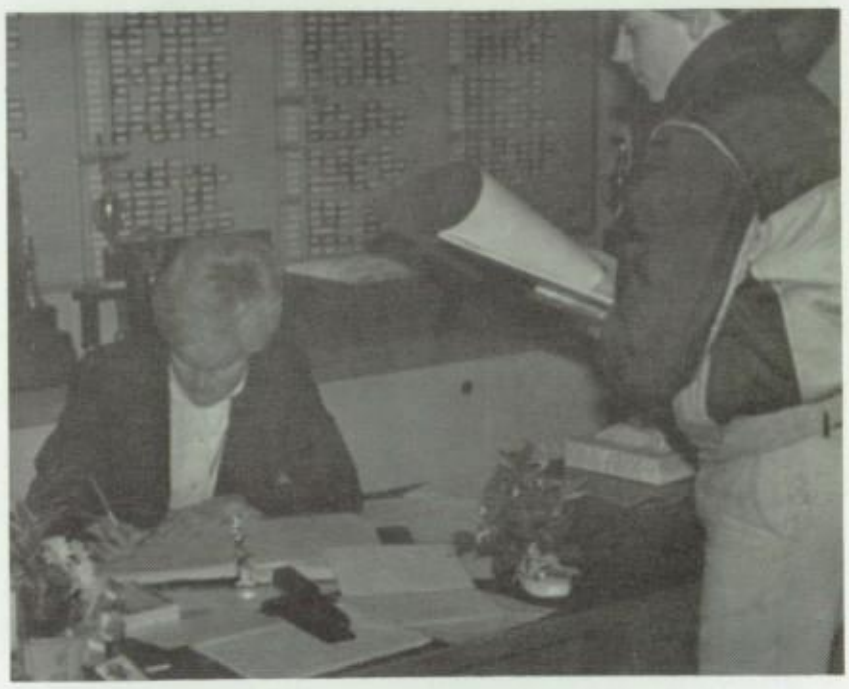
The cafeteria workers were never dismayed as they served hot meals to all of us.

The clerical staff helped our principals to keep order by keeping track of our whereabouts.

The Board of Education secretaries were (Bottom Row) Marlene Wright, Debbie Dahm, Wally Cechovic, (Top Row) Nadine Chapman, Gayle Hargis, Myra Ramers, and JoAnn Katzmark.

The high school secretaries were (Bottom Row) Jean McDonald, Lynn Schwoebel, Sheila Voellinger, Jo Doctorman, (Top Row) Helen Phillips, Doris Wittlinger, Gloria Rose, Marian Sanford, Ellie Krummrich, Betty Burris, and Mary Lou Chamblin.

Working as Mr. Robert Dosier's secretary, Mrs. Myra Ramers helped to keep the Board of Education office operating.



Mrs. Helen Phillips assisted Tom Elsea in Mr. Turner's office.

Cafeteria workers relaxed after a hard day's work.

Students and faculty will miss Mrs. Anna "Annie" Gaubatz who retired in January after twenty-five years of working on campus. She began her work as a member of the cafeteria staff and then switched to the job of matron on the custodial staff. Called "Grandma" as a term of affection by many students over the years, Mrs. Gaubatz gave common sense advice to many who came to her with problems. With her devotion to work and duty, she set a good example for students who came to know her as she went around doing her work on campus. She was honored by her colleagues with a reception in the conference room on her last day of work.

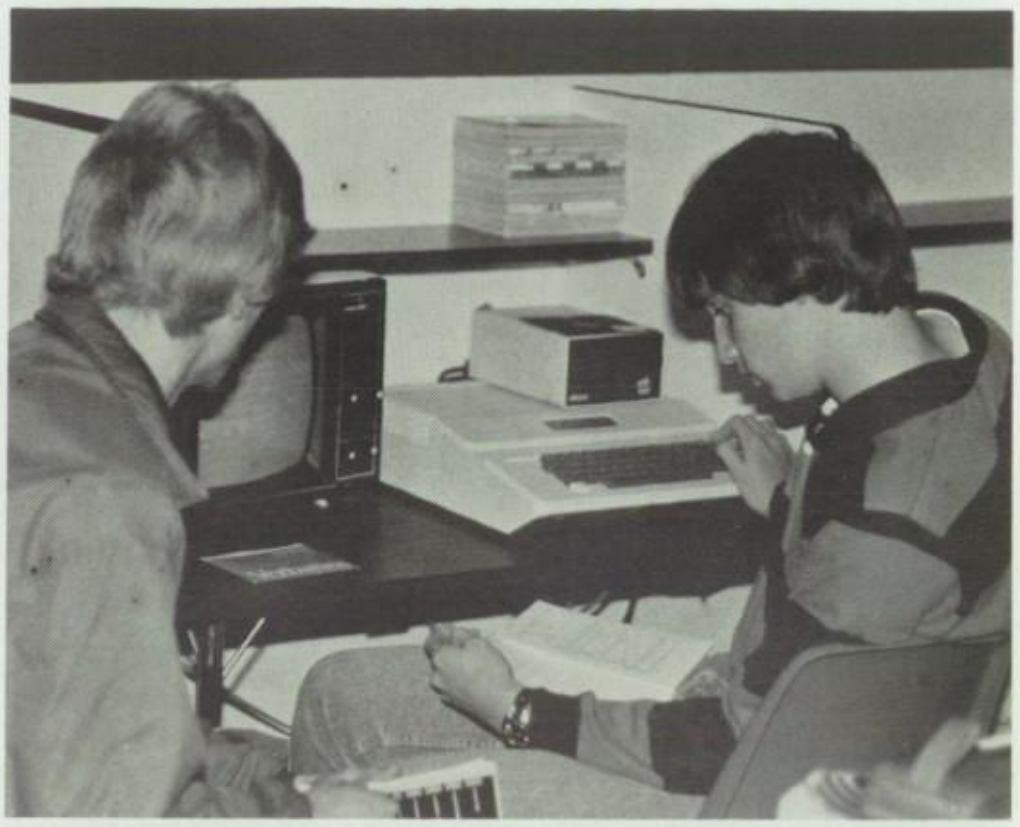
Clever calculating courses were challenging

The clever calculating courses were some of the many math classes offered to students.

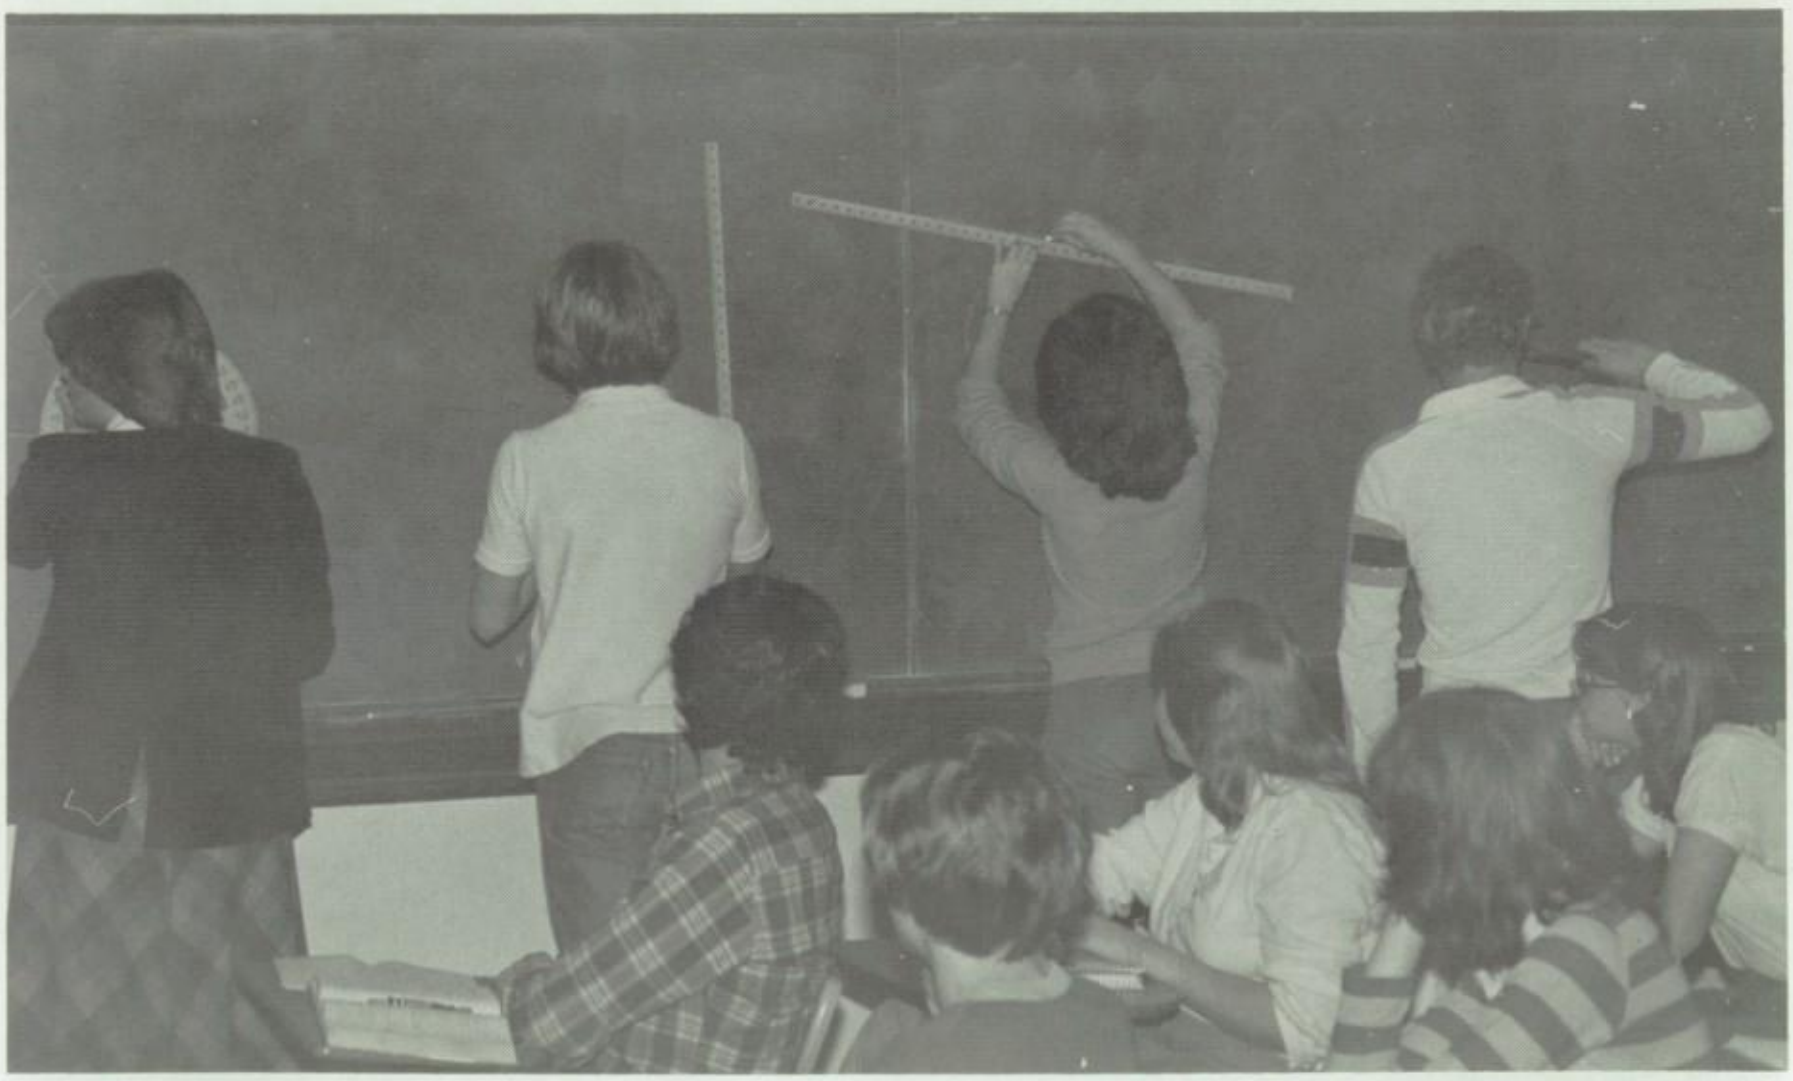
In freshman algebra, basic math, introduction to algebra and junior algebra, students learned that in order to get A's, B's, or C's, they had to know their x's, y's and z's.

In geometry, students learned that there was more to squares, rectangles and triangles. They attempted to conquer theorems and angles.

In trigonometry, college algebra, and introduction to computers, students had to deal with more challenging and complicated material. It didn't take them long to find out that these courses demanded extra effort.



Rick Schroeder and Tim Kastner worked with computers in an Introductory to Computers class.



Mrs. Merle Guthrie's geometry students learned how to draw circles and angles with the use of rulers, compasses, and protractors.

Amalie Ferry and Kimberly Adkins worked on necklaces as a project for their first-year French class.

Language studies provide exotic experiences

Students encountered exotic experiences by enrolling in foreign language classes.

French students studied the culture of the country with a special emphasis on French artists. One of their projects in learning the language was creating Valentines.

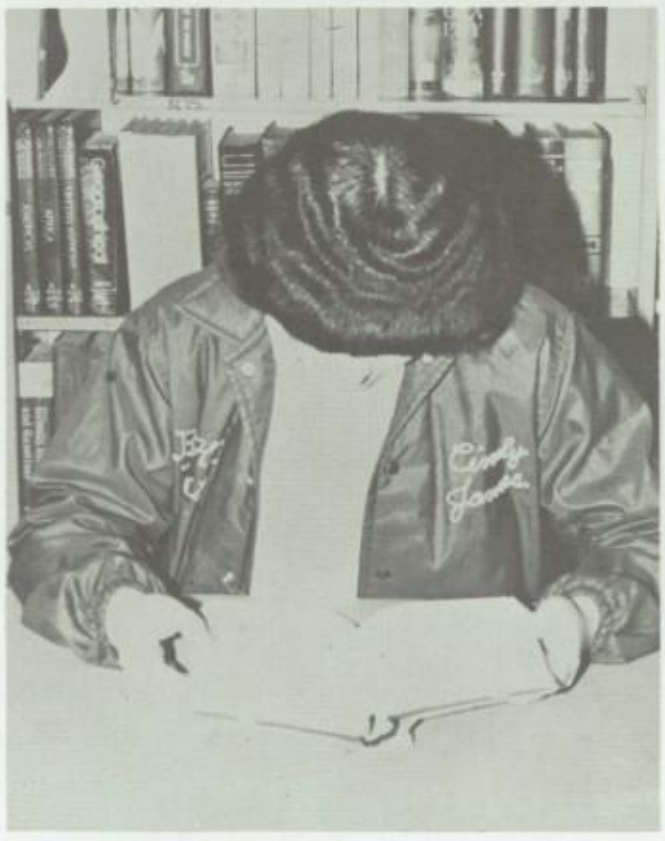
To study the country and the language of Germany, every Tuesday one of the classes performed plays and skits in German.

Making pinatas helped Spanish students to understand the culture of the Spanish-speaking peoples.

Kelly Grenia, Jim Kurtz, Ilonka Amos, and Caroline Brennan performed skits for their German class.

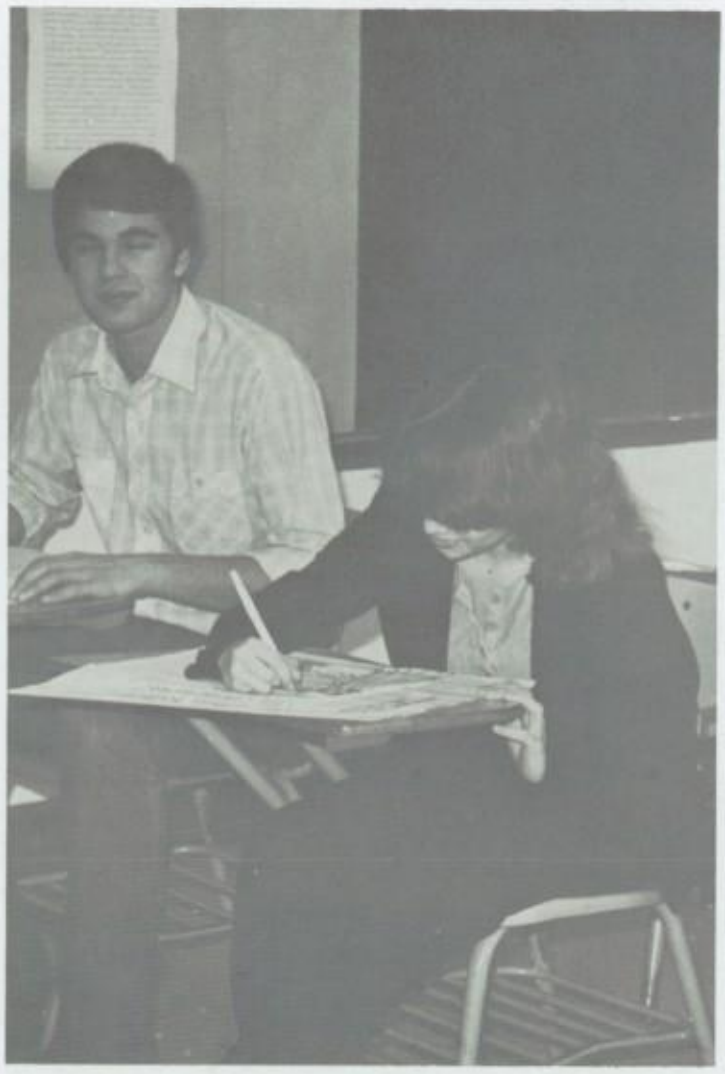
Mary Lu Arterburn and Whitney Higgins constructed a pinata for a Spanish class.

One of the techniques used in literature classes was the group discussion method.

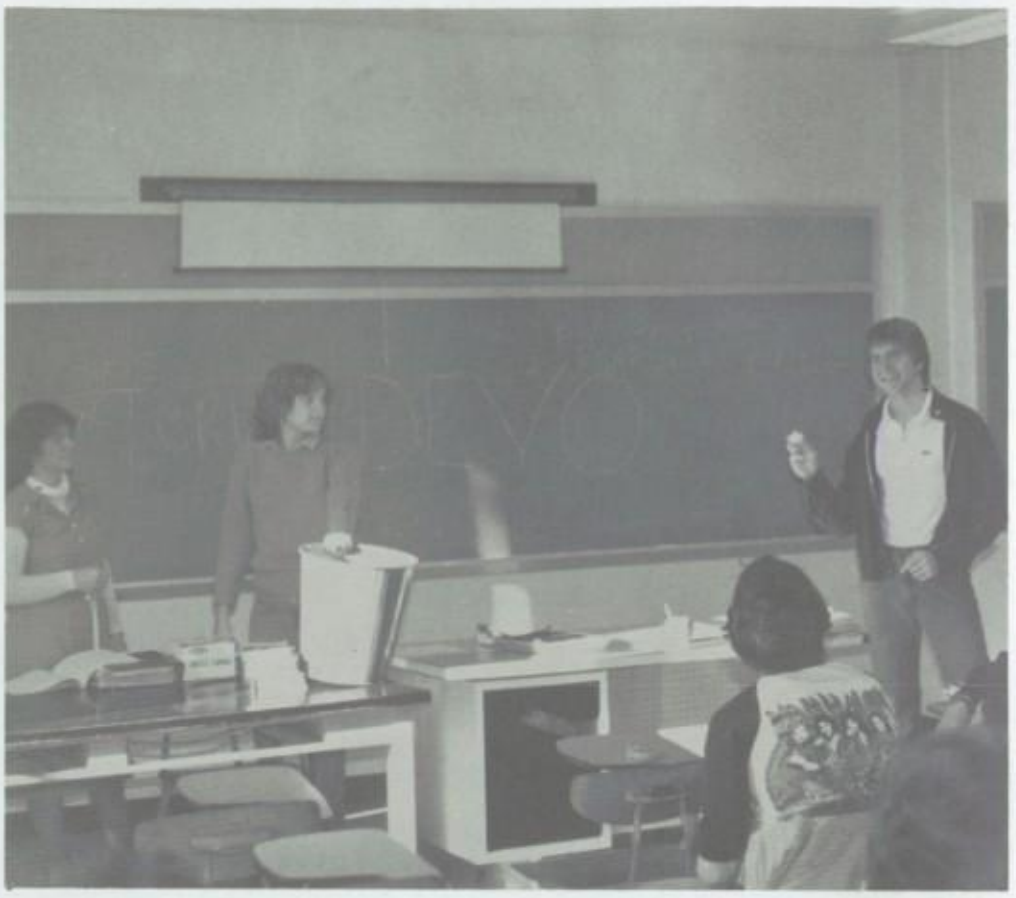


In a quiet spot in the library, Cindy James pores over a novel assigned in a literature class.

In their oral interpretation class, Ben Hunsaker and Jane Womble demonstrated acting skills.



Norman Krause and Pam Baumann struggled with newspaper layouts in their journalism class.



Playing "basketball" helped Sherry Stoddard, Barb Eaton, and Mark Harris to learn new words in a vocabulary class.

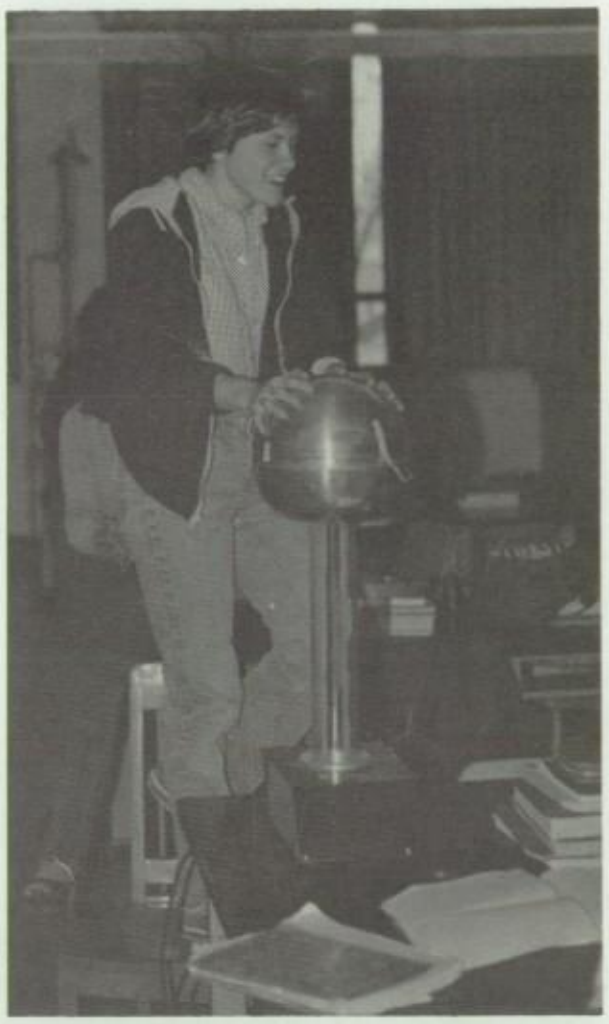
Through the use of reading machines, students enrolled in the Reading Clinic increased speed and comprehension in their reading.

English courses gave exciting experiences

Language arts are used all day long, in the cafeteria, in all classrooms, between friends, and everywhere in our daily lives. Courses in the language arts, which include reading, writing, speaking, and listening, are commonly called "English classes." Since all courses are in the English language, knowing the English language is essential to all learning in school.

All freshmen were given a basic course, stressing literature and composition. Through the reading of "Romeo and Juliet" they were introduced to Shakespeare. One semester of the sophomore year stressed speech skills and oral communication through voice inflection, gesture, and facial expression. Juniors and seniors chose from a pot pouri of courses called by such titles as vocabulary, reading techniques, individualized reading, composition, and assorted literature.

Observing a chemistry experiment were Neil Middendorf, Tom Krawczyk, Dave McCammon, Scott Berry, and Sam Hayes.



Her physics class gave Alice Younger a hair-raising experience.

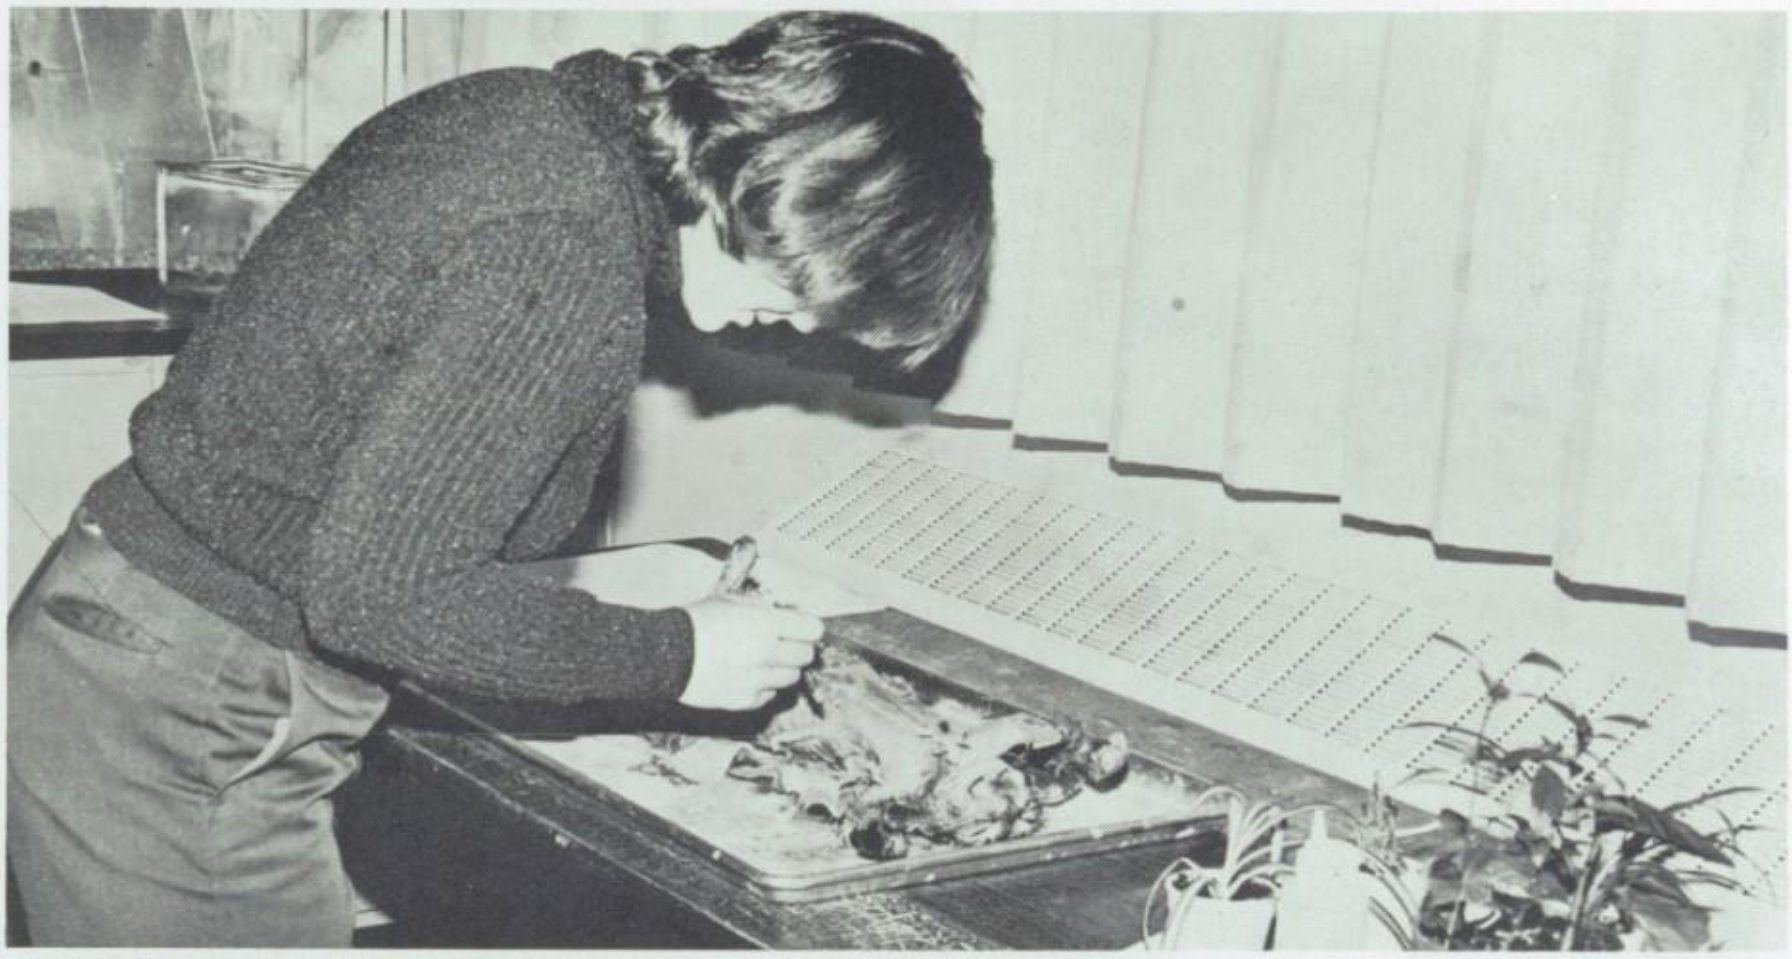
Students strive for scientific skills

Those enrolled in courses in the physical and natural sciences developed scientific skills.

Courses in biology and anatomy gave students a chance to learn the use of the microscope. They also disected worms, crayfish, frogs, cats, pigs, and sharks.

Students became familiar with and learned to use laboratory equipment in their physics and chemistry classes.

Greg Thomas and Doug McCurdy examined the structure of a fish during an ecology class.



Shelly Melhorn examined the cat that her anatomy class had dissected.

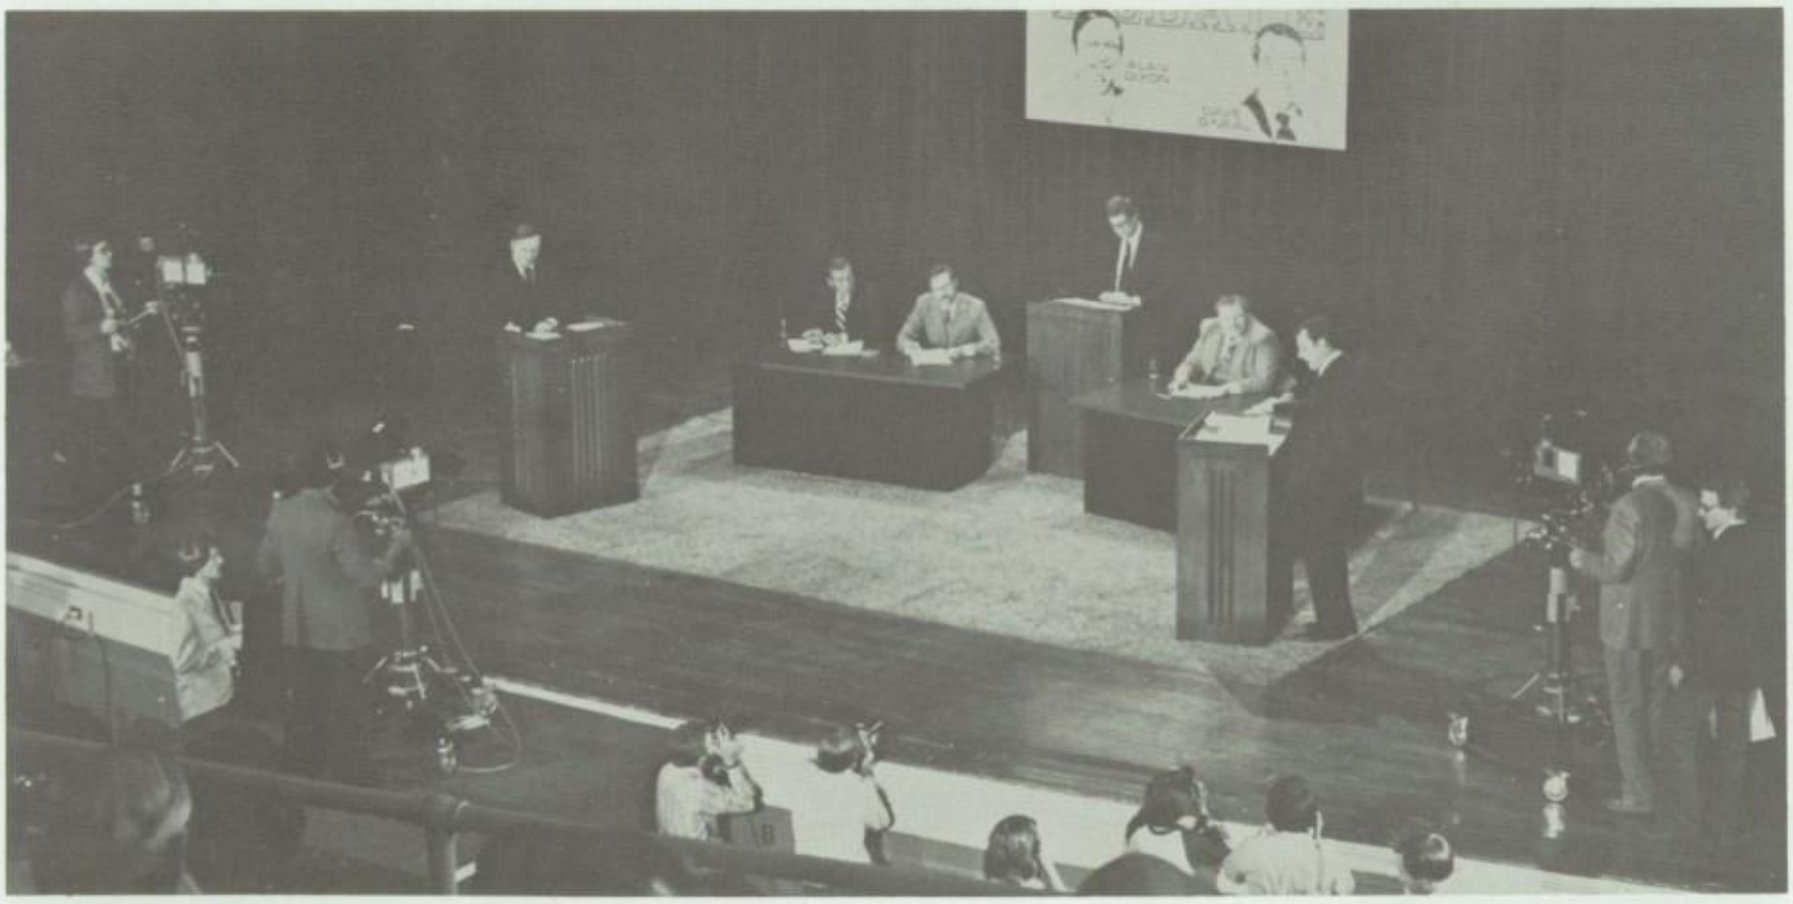
Todd Schroeder and Mattha Bassler were in charge of watering the plants in the biology lab.

Social Studies courses stimulate thinking

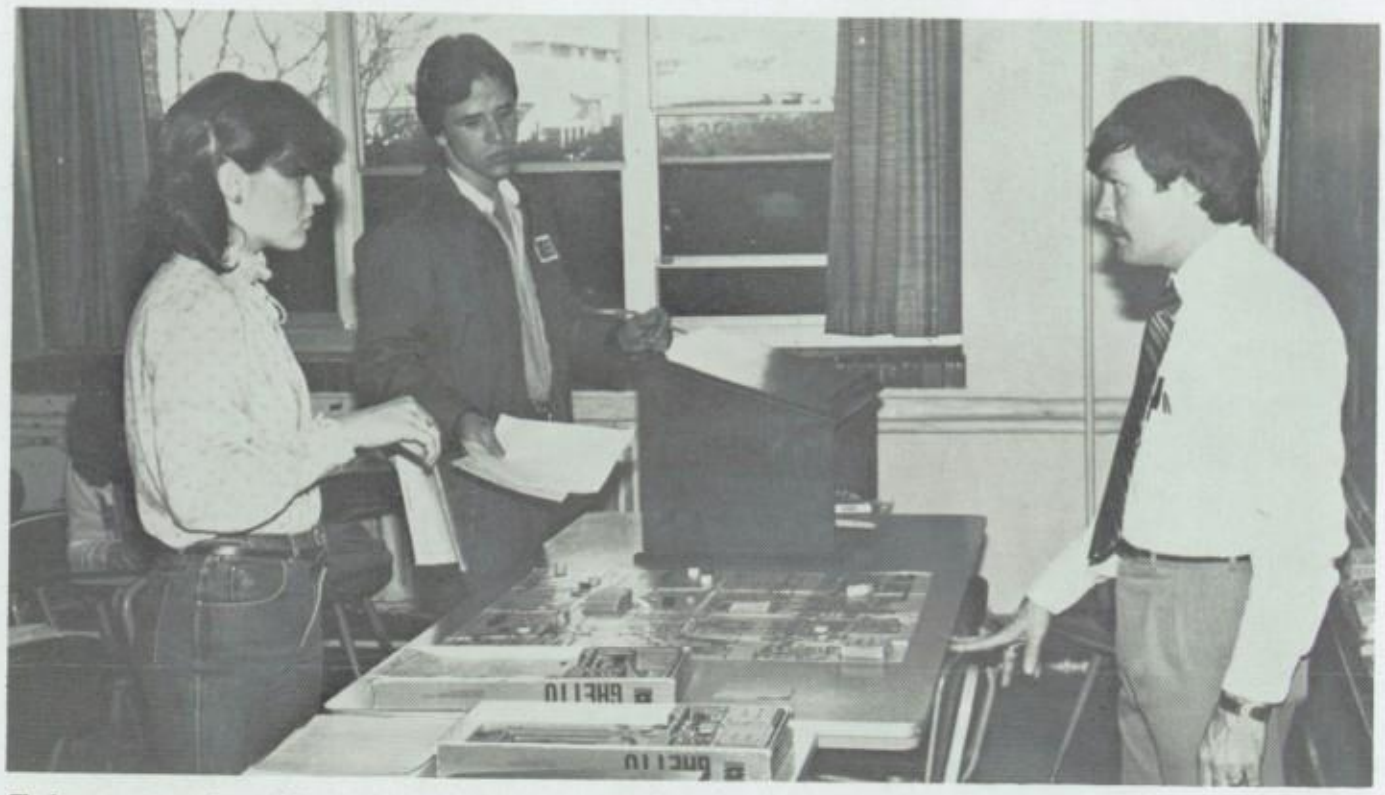
One way to find out more about people and their cultures was to enroll in courses in the social studies fields. There were a variety of mini-courses from which juniors could choose which aspect of American history they wished to study about. Catchy titles of those little courses included Men at War, America's West, Nuclear Age, Civil War, the '20's and '30's, Popular American Image, Colonial Life, America in World Crisis, Frigates, Fords, and Phantoms, Grange to Ghetto, and Minorities.

To study the nature of human relationships, seniors enrolled in sociology while those in psychology classes studied the behavior of individuals. Other courses included American problems, government, and civics which dealt with the political and economic aspects of daily life.

The physiography class of Mike Rockwell, Duane Trickey, and Bob Weck learned about the earth's development by examining rocks such as fluorite, the state mineral of Illinois.



Alan Dixon and Dave O'Neal, candidates for the United States Senate, returned to their Alma Mater in October for their fourth debate in the state. To observe democracy in action, students in government and other social studies classes attended the News-Democrat-sponsored event in the Auditorium.



To learn more about lifestyles in other places, Kim Buckner and Joe Davies played the game of "Ghetto" in Mr. Robert Vitek's class in American problems.

A class in the history of the '20' and the '30's suffered through an exam given by Mr. Vince Torigian.

Physical proficiency was the ultimate goal

The objective of classes in physical education and health was physical proficiency. PE gave students an hour of play in a day of work. In health classes they picked up information about ways to keep in top shape.

Red Light, Green Light was more than a game for driver's education students as they learned the proper and safe ways to handle a car through the use of classroom instruction, the simulator, and an actual car.

Joy Elliot and Amy Schofield kept an eye on their blood pressure during Mr. Gary Carr's health class.

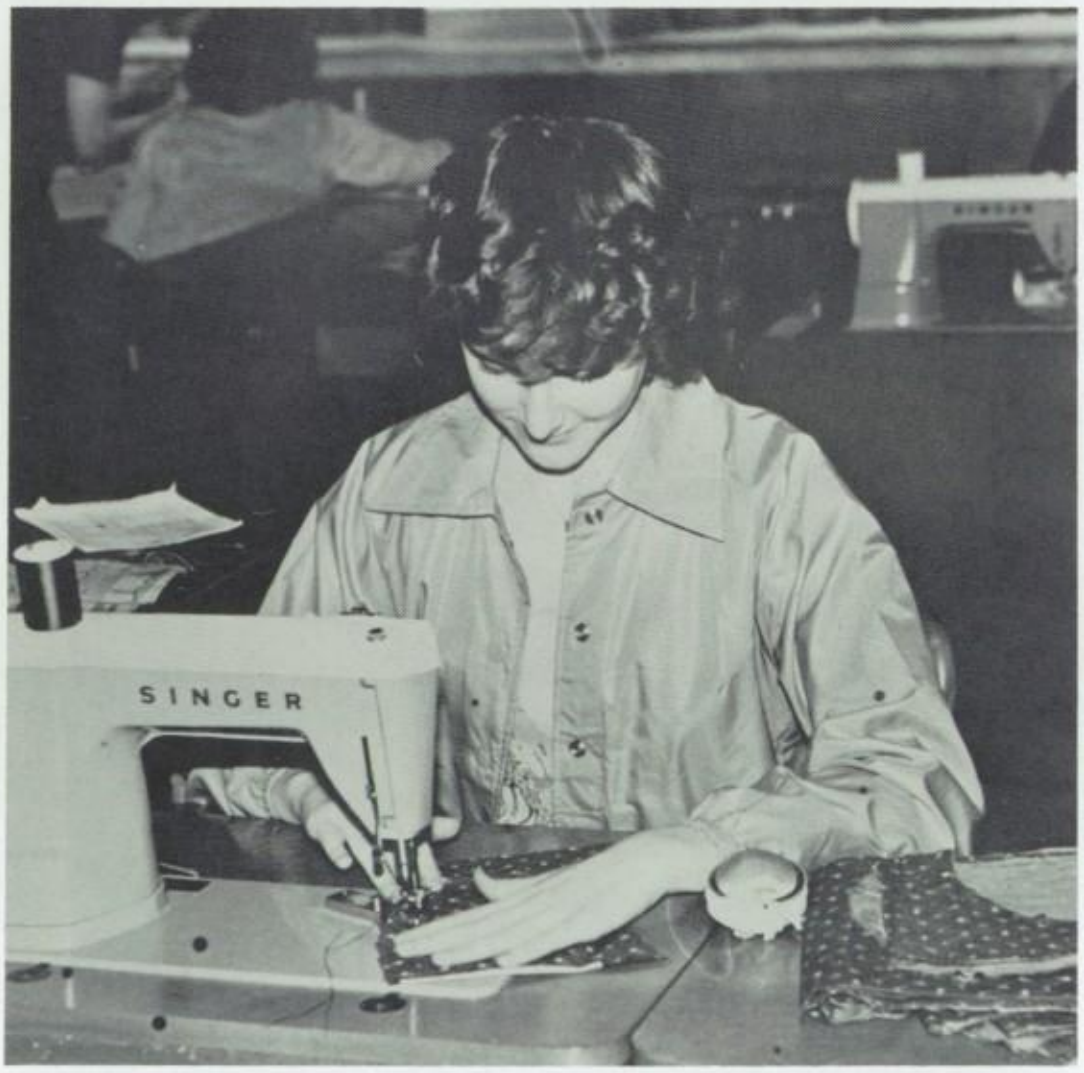
Learning the rules of the road started in classroom instruction.

Even during the simulator phase of driver training, Cindy Eaton concentrated on the road.

Behind the wheel experience brought together the classroom and the simulator phases of the driver education program.

Watch out, guys! Because of their Family Living project, these girls already have planned their weddings.



In her clothing construction class, Sheri Panneck created a new outfit for herself.

Practical skills were picked up in Home Economics

As inflation brought increased prices the cost of food and clothing kept going up. Courses in Home Economics helped to teach girls how to stretch their dollars.

In sewing classes, they learned how to create their own clothes and to sew for others, picking their own clothes and shortcuts along the way. Money saved from constructing their own clothes and a new wardrobe were benefits gained in addition to receiving a credit toward graduation.

Students enrolled in meal planning, nutrition, and cooking classes found that there was more of a nutritious meal than just opening a can. They enjoyed experimenting with new dishes.

The course called Family Living dealt with various aspects of married life and bringing up children.

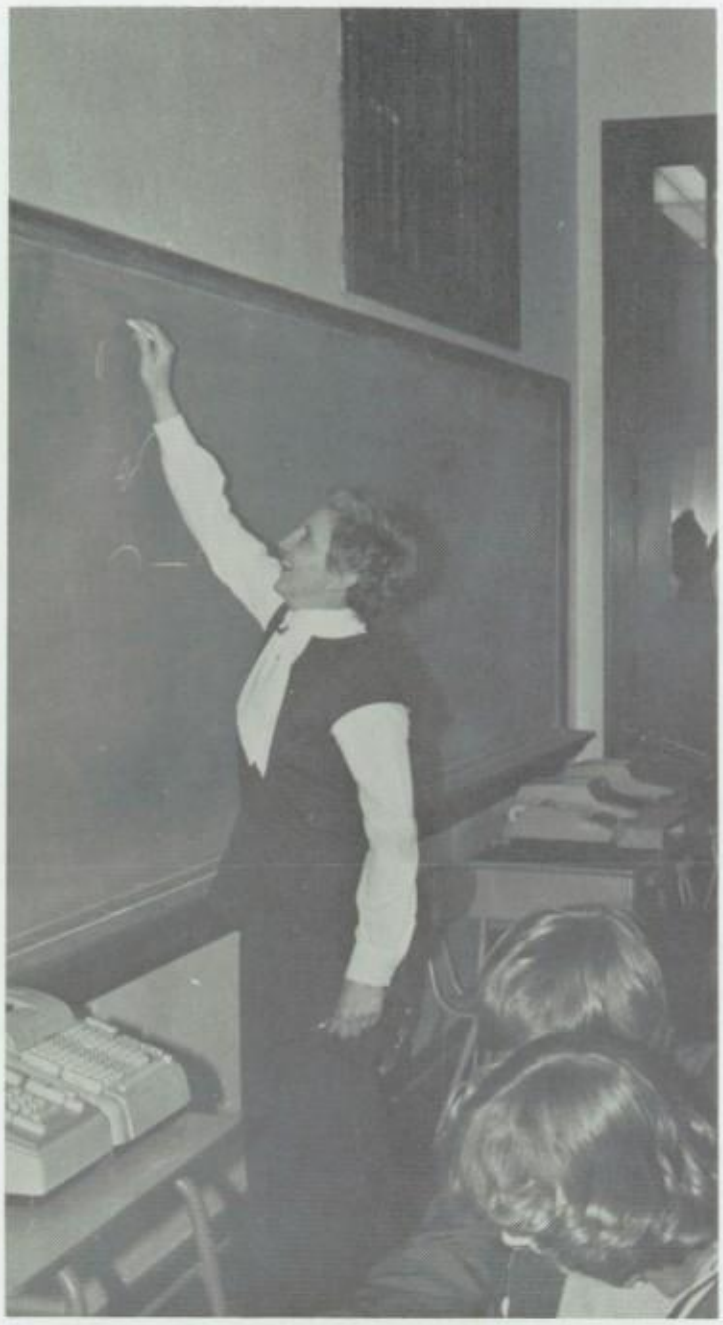
To increase their speed and accuracy in transcribing letters Karen Hankhammer and Cathy Turpin used the dictaphone in an office occupation class.

Financial finesse was the goal of business classes

Financial finesse was obtained as students mastered their business courses and learned business skills.

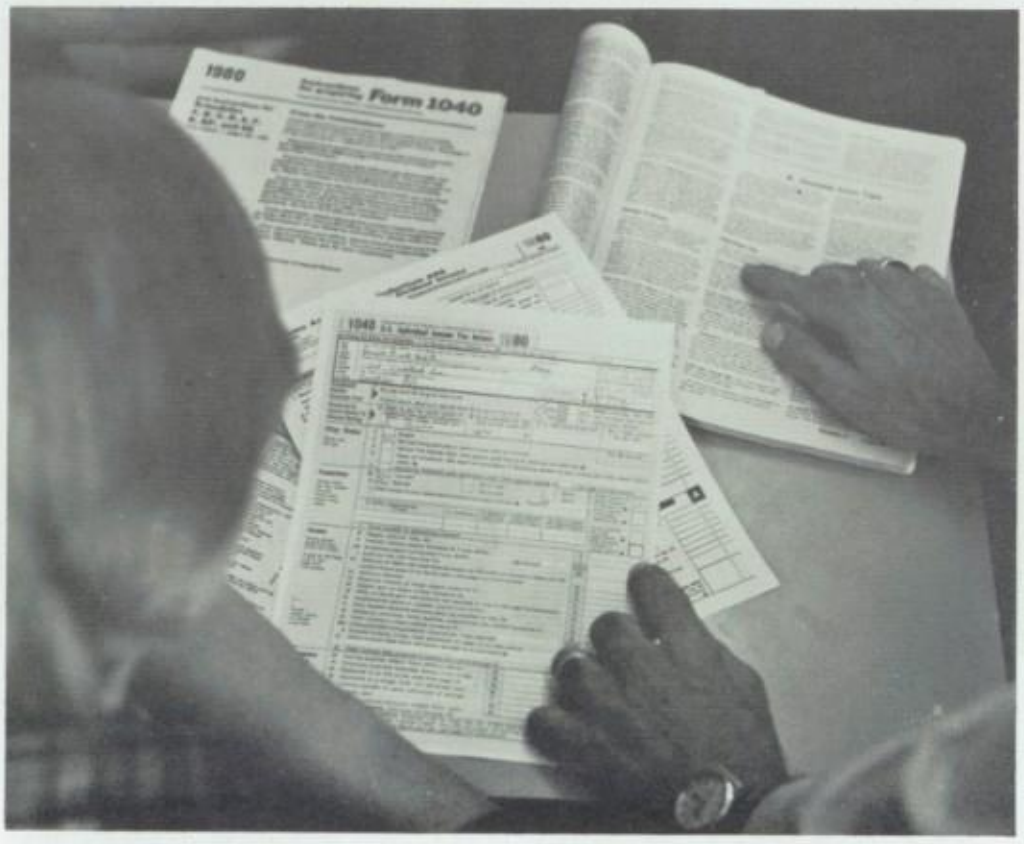
As changes became evident in the job market, more students realized that their future will lie in the business community. The Business Education department provided classes in almost every aspect of business from accounting to typing for interested students. Shorthand, typing, office procedures, and business English classes focused on the skills needed by those wanting to obtain a secretarial job or to gain business experience.

"Guilty or not guilty" was the question posed to the consumer education classes as they learned about the court system through simulation.



As Mrs. Vera Wood pointed out to her class, it took more than a secret decoder ring to figure out the meaning of shorthand.

The distributive education classes demonstrated new techniques in advertising displays.



Accounting teachers became as busy as H&R Block during tax time as they helped students with their tax forms.

Skills needed in our personal lives were also a concern of business courses. With the increase of students in part-time jobs, learning to prepare tax forms in accounting classes became a practical necessity.

The cliche "Let the buyer beware" was the motto of consumer education courses as students were taught to deal with decisions and problems they encountered as customers. Business law courses explained to students their legal recourses and their rights and duties as citizens, consumers, employees, and eventually, employers.

Marcia Skowron enjoyed her work on her bitik in a crafts class.

Using the skills developed in a drawing class, Jeff Williams won recognition for his work.

Artistic students display their abilities

Artistic students displayed their abilities beginning with Art 1-2. After the introductory year, they could choose advanced classes such as jewelry design, crafts, pottery, and ceramics.

Musical ability was trained in choruses, bands, and guitar classes.

Students interested and skilled in the fine arts earned recognition for themselves and their school with their achievements.

Ronda Brough was the audience for the guitar playing of Jim Grissom.

Susie Huwer tried different arrangements on a project for her ceramics class.

Tim Walz concentrated on designing jewelry in his art class.

Mechanical mastery was achieved by many

The students who achieved mechanical mastery were the ones who enrolled in industrial arts courses.

There were three different sections of wood shop, beginning with general shop for freshmen. In beginning wood shop the students constructed benches, magazine racks, and bookcases. Those enrolled in furniture construction made large pieces of furniture such as floor gun cases and large coffee tables.

The drawing classes helped prepare students for future jobs such as blueprinting and architectural work.

In auto shop students learned how to tune up engines. By studying the individual parts, they found out how the engine works.

Welding courses gave those enrolled the opportunity to learn about and to operate welding tools.

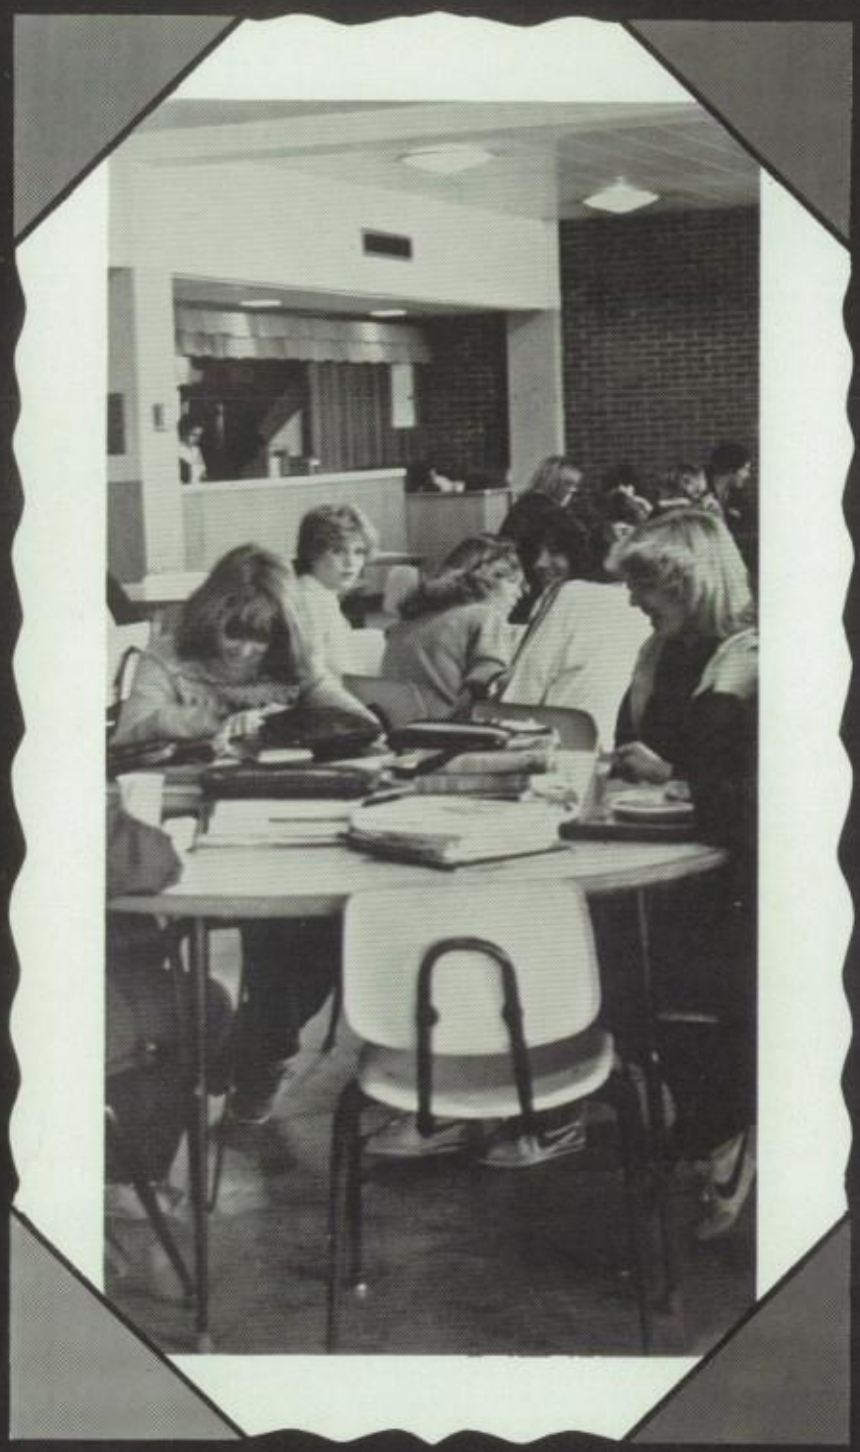
Perry Nowak concentrated on his welding.

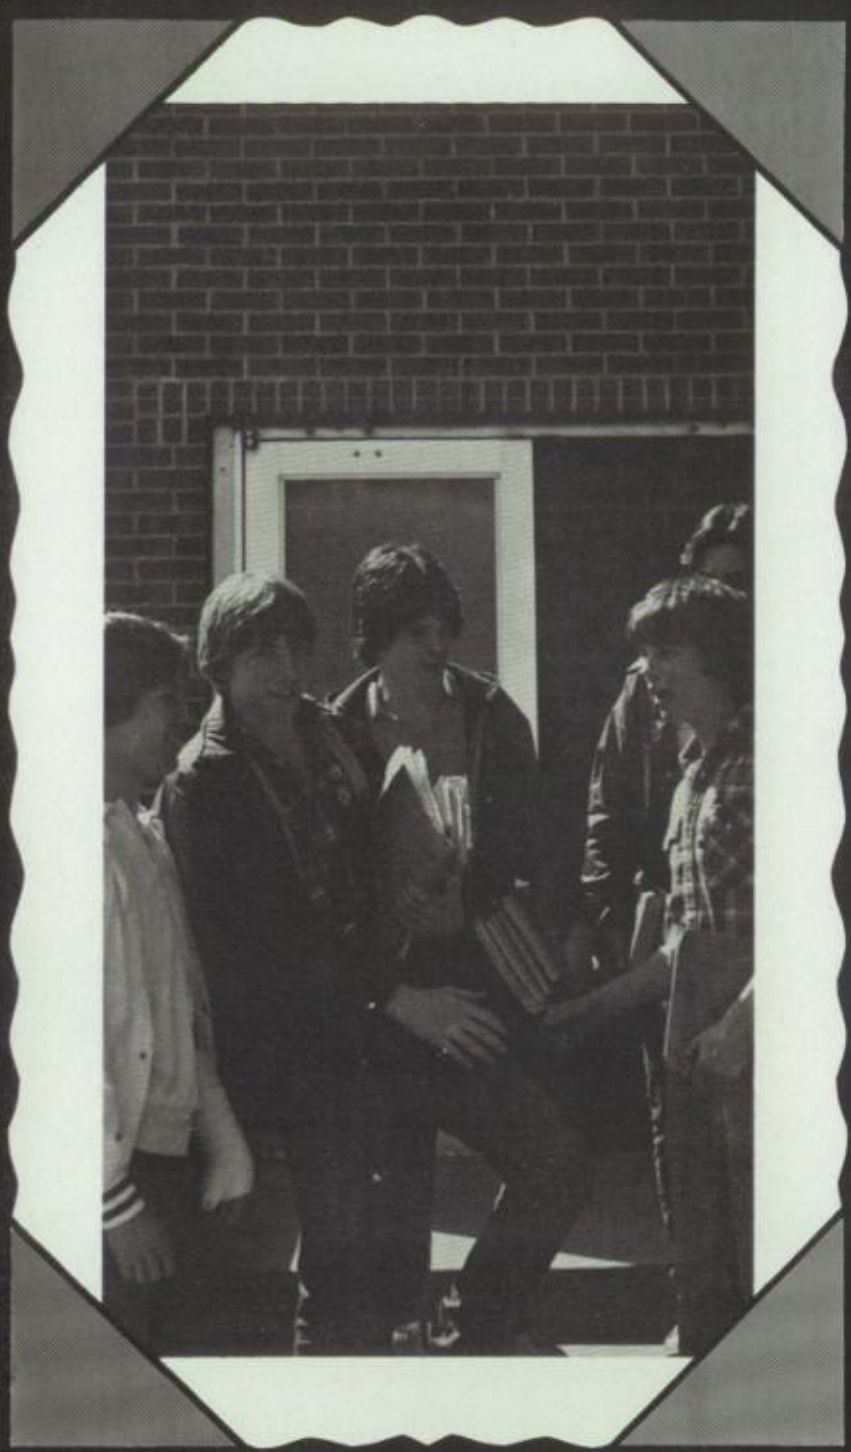
Shop foreman John Schweiss knew how to accomplish his wood shop project.

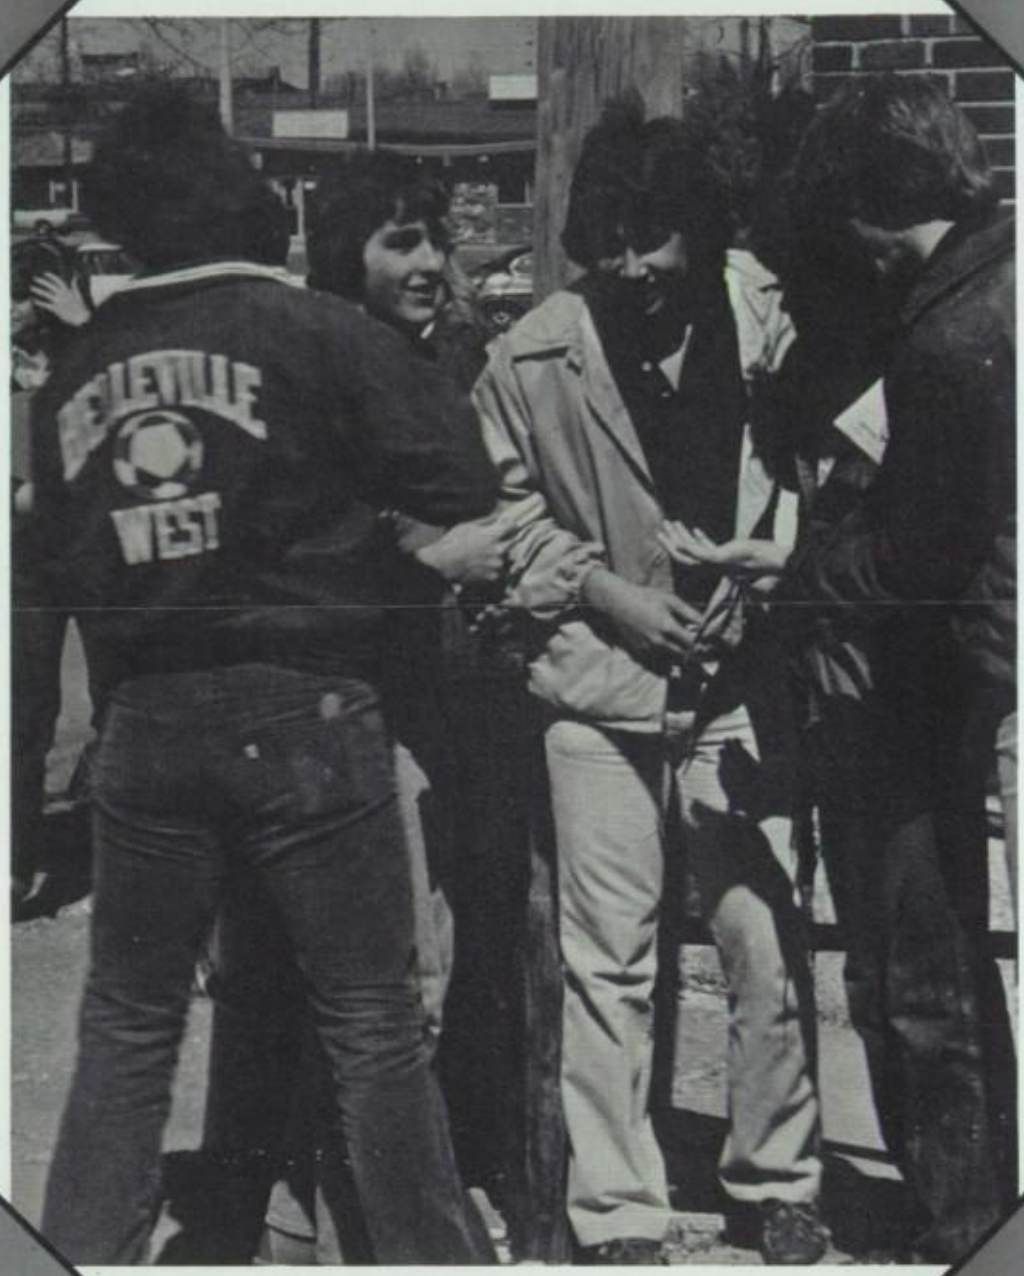
Tim Padgett and Robert Schaefer worked hard on their assignment in an electronics class.

Rick Rozycke and Rick Stauder got "hands on training" in the Auto Shop.

As the only girl in her architectural drawing class, Margaret Edmondson, a senior, concentrated on a new design.







We showed our individuality in choosing courses and friends, while we united in school spirit and cheering our teams on to victory. Classes were obviously divided by plays, elections, and spirit assemblies, but we all helped to support one another. Together, all two thousand five hundred and sixty-two of us were proud to be Belleville West.

Language clubs had fun learning about other people and their lifestyles

The German Club was sponsored by Miss Lynn Koehler. Members sang German Christmas carols at local nursing homes and enjoyed a spring banquet at Eberhardt's in Waterloo.

The French Club also went caroling. For the first year, the members participated in the Hobo Day hall-decorating contest. Mrs. Marianne Chmeleck sponsored the club.

Lisa Barkowski and Gerry Wessel worked on the French Club display in the Hall Decorating Contest during Spirit Week.

Missy Cusack tried her hand at breaking the pinata at the Mardi Gras celebration on March 3.

Using our skills in research we learned about our state's past

Sponsored by Mr. Vince Torigian, the Southwestern State and Local History Club met one Tuesday every month since their organization during the 1972-1973 school year. Since that time members have had sixty-two articles published in the Illinois History magazine. Members have also won three hundred and one regional blue ribbons and eighty-one state ribbons. To finance trips to the regional history fair the club earned money by having bake sales. Members displayed their history projects in public libraries and banks and continued their purchases of books on Illinois for the school library. The club again participated in the regional history fair, sponsored by the Illinois State Historical Society.

High prices, poor quality, and bad service were three of many consumer-related topics the Consumer Education Club discussed. Members met every Thursday morning to help any student or faculty member who had complaints about the buying or selling of goods or services. In addition, the club held bake sales and entered the hall decorating contest on Hobo Day.

Members of the Social Studies Club went to City Council meetings, took polls on current events, and sponsored bake sales. In addition, the club also held a mock election, helped register 18 year-olds to vote, and adopted an animal at the St. Louis zoo.

Thinking of survey questions for the Social Studies Club was a tough job for Amy Sperry.

We put heart and soul into our music

The music of the Concert Choir was enjoyed by its participants as well as by its audiences. The choir met daily with its director, Mr. Don Jones, to practice a variety of songs ranging from slow ballads to popular up-tempos. Among their performances were a Christmas concert, the "Festival of Songs," and a spring concert entitled annually "And Then There Was Song." The choir made appearances at feeder schools to promote music at West. Their biggest compliment was the invitation to sing at the Mayor's Breakfast at Fischer's in February. The hard-working accompanist of the choir was Laurie Heller.

In addition to marching in community parades, the groups performed at all of the home football games. Their pre-game selection consisted of the Wide World of Sports, the Star Spangled Banner, and the Notre Dame fight song. Halftime songs were Bully, Alexander's Ragtime Band, the Battle of Jericho, and two numbers from West Side Story, Cool and Somewhere. With enthusiasm, loyalty, and hope we worked to become Marching Maroons

Sponsors of the Concert Band were Mrs. Gloria Mayer and Mr. Ralph Schlesinger. Mrs. Mayer concentrated on woodwinds and strings while Mr. Schlesinger worked with percussion and brass. The only requirement for membership in the band was the ability to play some instrument. The band program, composed mostly of freshmen, was set up for the purpose of training musicians for the Marching Band. This training became a necessity because many of the grade schools no longer provide enough training in music. Playing a full repetoire of music on the intermediate level, the band performed in two concerts, one in the fall and the other in spring.

Singin' and Swingin' was our business

The members of Remon not only used their vocal talents but added a touch of Broadway to their acts with their dancing. In addition to their concert audiences enjoying their performances, they also won the attention of district contest judges who gave them a first place at Bethalto. Performing at various functions such as "Swingin' and Singin'" and the "Festival of Songs," was a part of their contribution to the music program on campus.

We worked to achieve the best

Preliminary exams were given before each interschool math competition to choose the team members to represent West at the match. Faculty sponsors helped the team members who worked on their materials for the match individually. Mrs. Diane Thom and Mrs. Marilyn Hughes assisted the freshmen squad, Mr. Dave Llewellyn, the sophomores, Mrs. Melody Maksudian, the juniors, and Mr. Don Jackson, the seniors on the squad.

Mrs. JoLynda Manion and Mrs. JoAnn Hoffmann were the sponsors of the Rough Writers, whose goal was to publish the creative writings of students. The only requirement for membership was interest in reading and choosing the poems, stories, and articles handed in by members of the student body for printing in the collection of student works called "Page One."

Miss Jo Manion discussed the submitted material with some of the Rough Writers.

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes again sponsored a needy family at Christmas and went caroling at area nursing homes. Members ran the concession stands during home football and basketball games and participated in the hall decorating contest during Spirit Week. For fun they went on a hayride during the autumn season. Last summer some members took part in the national conferences of the Fellowship. Faculty sponsors were Mr. Norman Armstrong, Mrs. Donna Norbet, and Mr. John Wehmeier.

The six members of the Bible Study Club met weekly to engage in Biblical study while sharing in group fellowship. Their sponsor was Mr. Hank Hayes.

The goal of the Amateur Radio Club was to train the students to become amateur radio operators and to assist them in attaining their licenses. The sponsor was Mr. David Bobzen and the president of the club was Ken Simmons.

We learned a lot while trying to promote understanding between different peoples

The American Field Service supports the exchange student program at West. The club has doubled in size over the last year. This year's foreign exchange student was Punlopporn Sattabongkot from Tailand. Exchange students stay with host families in the area.

To make money for their activities the club held bake sales and sold candy and craft items. The club also held its annual auction. Students were sold as slaves for a day, and people donated items such as books and special dinners to be auctioned off.

The club met twice a month, and was sponsored by Miss Sue Sharp.

We worked hard to encourage school spirit and enthusiasm throughout the year

The Pep Club was very active in school activities. Members sponsored the "Breakfast of Champions" after the end of each sports season. The club also sponsored buses to various sports events including "away" football and basketball games. Through the sale of spirit items and popcorn at basketball games, the club not only made money, but provided an important service to the school. The club was sponsored by Mr. Vincent Torigian.

Little Theatre offered entertainment for everyone

Entertaining was certainly the word for this active group. Freshmen got off to a good start in September with three one-acts: "Three on a Bench," "Silent Snow, Secret Snow," and "The Wild Flowering of Chastity." In November, Theatre stunned audiences with the power of "Inherit the Wind," the story of Clarence Darrow and the trial about the teaching of evolution. Flying in the air, "Mary Poppins" amazed nursery and elementary school students at the performances of the sophomore play. "The Caretaker" was chosen as the play Theatre took to contest this year. The acting group ended a good year of entertainment with a rousing spring musical, "My Fair Lady."

Thespians worked hard on the stage and behind the scenes

Thespians carried on the tradition of turning out fine performers to represent West. Being a fine performer was not the only requirement needed to become a Thespian, however. All members had to work for two hundred hours as a Little Theatre member, one hundred of which were spent back stage. Even after becoming a Thespian, every member had to work for two hours on every Theatre production. Thespian Troup 369 was sponsored by Mr. Joe Chmeleck and Miss Nina Bono.

Cass Barranco and Ben Hunsaker were caught clowning around backstage at play rehearsal.

The student council leads the way in supporting activities

The Student Council was sponsored by Mr. Fredrick Kunze. Council members were elected by the individual classes and served for one year. Each class had eleven representatives and four officers. The Council elected its own officers who made up the Executive Board and ran the meetings which were held every day during the fifth hour. The Council sponsored two dances, the Football Frolic and the Christmas Dance. Members sold balloons at football games and sponsored a foster child in Indonesia. The group also sponsored Spirit Week and Hobo Day activities and sold mums for the West-East football game and Valigrams for Valentine's Day. In March the Council co-sponsored the Donkey Basketball game with the Bellevinois Staff. Council members kept in contact with the Administration and the cafeteria staff and made students' suggestions known to them. At the end of the year the Council held an egg toss for seniors which was fun for everyone.

Only perfection was good enough for the staff

Helping the school and community to preserve memories was the task of the Bellevinois Staff. The members of the staff met in a daily class session in the hope of making the 65th edition of the Bellevinois the best ever. Many worked overtime to sell ads, draw layouts, organize pictures, write copy, print negatives, and meet deadlines.

"M-A-R-O-O-N-S M-A-R-O-O-N-S Belleville West Maroons are BEST!"

The cheerleaders tried to promote school spirit and enthusiasm at assemblies and sporting events. The squads decorated the campus and the gym and planned the programs for pep assemblies. This year Mrs. Merle Guthrie returned as head coach. Miss Marsha Ames was assistant coach.

During the summer, the squads attended a cheerleading camp in Tennessee, where the football-basketball cheerleaders won two gold superior ribbons, seven blue ribbons and one red ribbon. The squad also received the spirit stick for being the most spirited group at the camp. The cheerleaders sold candles, had bake sales, and car washes to raise money to go to camp. Another honor which the football-basketball cheerleaders received was winning first place out of twenty-two squads at the Centralia Holiday Basketball Tournament.

The soccer-wrestling cheerleaders raised our spirits during assemblies.

Junior varsity cheerleaders were Toni Woodrome, Beth Mills, Marilyn Brennen, and Lisa Sotiropoulos.

Varsity cheerleaders were Sue Nagel, co-captain, Cheryl Williamson, Elaine Smith, Amy Boyles, Melinda Woofter, Enya Zenerosa, Lauren Patton, Diane Heberer, Pam Swarztrauber, and Kelly Heidorn, co-captain.

Al Lesko, a senior, competed in the number two spot while Dan Boatman, a junior, led the team in the singles slot. Others on the varsity were Bruce Cohn, Ted Meyer, Craig Cimarolli, and Tom Hoppenjans. The team began the season with victories over Cahokia and Lebanon, both by the score of 8 to 1.

Mike Daenzer

Class of 1981

Faithful Member of the Bellevinois Staff,

"I cannot say, and I will not say that he is dead. He is just away.
With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand,
he has wandered into an unknown land.
And left us, dreaming how very fair
it needs must be since he lingers there.

And you, oh, you, who the wildest yearn for an old-time step and the glad return, think of him faring on, as dear
in the love of there as the love of here.
Think of him still the same, I say.
He is not dead — he is just away."

—James Whitcomb Riley

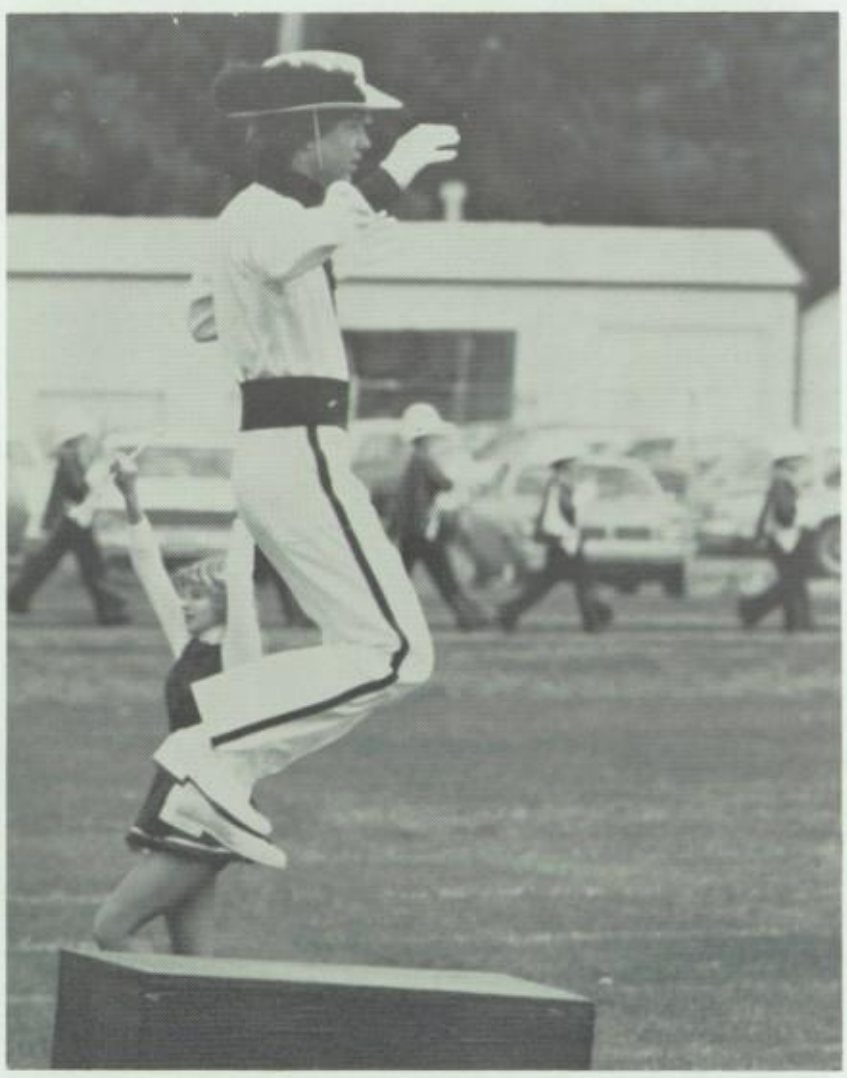
Seniors bring honors to the school and community

Rob McCammon, the president of the Senior Class, brought high honor to himself, his family, and his school as he earned national recognition as a National Merit Finalist on the basis of his scores on the PSAT/NMSQI national tests.

Seniors, voting in their English classes, chose Christy Waterson and Frank Kartman as recipients of the annual Good Citizenship Awards given by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Rob McCammon ranks in the upper half of one percent of all high school seniors in the United States on test results.

One of the many campus activities of Christy Waterson was her position as Sections Editor of the Bellevinois. Her work included many hours of planning pictures and picking out negatives to be printed for the yearbook.



Frank Kartman was known to all fans of the Marching Maroons for his spirited performances as Drum Major. His dedication to his role earned him recognition both locally and in district contests.

Our collection of photographs captured only some of our memories. These memories will be precious to those who were a part of our school in 1980-81. In the future, paging through our yearbook will be a way to "relive" our high school days at Belleville West.
